SAM LANGFORD'S BOUT

Had the Better of Joe Jeannette in New York Last Night

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Sam Langford won his 10-round bout with Joe Jeannette in Madison square garden last night, but every minute of the 30 in which blows were exchanged, the Boston man knew he had a stiff problem to solve. Jeannette fought gamely and cleverly. The Hoboken negro was at no time afraid of the Boston terror, and frequently sent back better than he got.

It was a thrilling mill from start to finish, and, although it was fast and clever, the bout was somewhat of a disappointment to the followers of pugilism. Langford was looked to for a knockout in seven rounds or so, but the fact that Jeannette pulled through for the limit sent Langford's stock as a likely opponent for Johnson away down.

A crowd that filled the garden witnessed the bout, but the overcrowding of a week ago was avoided. The confusion outside the garden which characterized the Wells-Brown contest was likewise missing last night.

The bout in detail:
Round 1—They went to close quarters with short arm blows, with Jeannette slipping to the left and right, but was up in a moment. A light left hook sent Jeannette to the mat for a second. Langford worried him to the end of the round, which was the Boston man's.

Round 2—Jeannette was quick after the song rang, and after a few rapid blows he sent Langford down for two seconds with a left and right. The face, Jeannette forced matter and landed five straight lefts and rights, Langford using body blows at close range. This was Jeannette's round.

Round 3—Langford kept rushing, but Jeannette's rapid footwork bothered the Boston man. Sam sent left and right to the face, with Jeannette breaking ground. At long range there were several wicked exchanges, but Langford's deadly left hooks to the neck and body gave him the round.

Round 4—Langford forced Joe around the ring, but missed half a dozen swings and hooks. After a rapid exchange of body blows, Langford hooked his left to the jaw and Jeannette went down for the count of eight. He stilled off the smaller man until the bell rang, Langford's round.

Round 5—Langford was the aggressor, playing for the body, with Jeannette, vainly trying backhand swings. Langford had the better of the fighting and had the round easily on point.

Round 7—Langford with left and right smashes forced Jeannette into a corner. Jeannette broke ground and made Langford miss several swings. They exchanged several heavy lefts and rights on the head. Jeannette stood up gamely and out-fought Langford, Jeannette's round.

Round 8—Jeannette led, landing two lefts on the head. Langford sent a hard left to the body, but missed two swings for the head. At close quarters, Langford got to the body heavily, but was beaten off again by a left and right to the head. Jeannette's round.

Round 9—Langford forced the pace, but Jeannette put a couple of stiff lefts to the face. Langford jabbed the big fellow with a hard left to the head. It was Langford's round.

Round 10—Langford rushed like a demon, trying hard for a knockout. He forced the pace and sent Jeannette down for a count of three with a left smash on the jaw. Langford took a couple of hard punches in the wind, but sent back left and right with fierce force. His out-fought Jeannette to the end and had the round and fight.

BOB MOHA WON
HE GAVE BILLY BERGER A BAD WHALING

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Though handicapped by a closed left eye from the third round on, Bob Moha of Milwaukee gave Billy Berger of Pittsburgh a bad whaling and won the decision in their 12-round bout at the Armory A. A. last night. That Berger was on his feet at the end of the bout demonstrated that he can take punishment as well as anyone in the game.

It was Moha's first appearance in this city, but he lived up to the reputation given him by the followers of the game in the west. He is a bear-cat, and what he would have done to Berger, if both his eyes were open can only be imagined.

The Milwaukeean is a short and sturdily built fellow, fast on his feet and with his hands. Besides being strong he has considerable cleverness and can hit hard with both hands from almost any angle. His punches are short and snappy, and only a glutton for taking punishment like Berger could have withstood the terrific onslaught of Moha. Moha, besides being a punisher, is a good blocker, as well as he gave a fine exhibition of that part of the game.

The opening round is the only one in which Berger had the honor, and that was by a small margin. Moha at the time working to get a line on his opponent's style of milling. From that period Moha was after Berger all the time. He kept in close all the time and forced Berger to break ground continually.

In every one of the last 11 rounds Moha jabbed and hooked Berger in the face and body with the left and crossed the right to the jaw and body continually. For a few rounds Berger tried mixing it with Moha at close quarters, but the way that Moha beat a tattoo on Berger's body with both hands made him cease engaging him in that kind of milling.

After Moha's eye closed he fought all the harder and he had Berger puzzled to a great extent with his left leads. In a number of the rounds Berger landed some stiff counters on the face and body with both hands, but Moha showed no effect of them.

The body punishment that Moha had been giving Berger began to show, and what blows Berger landed after that session were few. Moha tried hard to score a knockout, and though he drove Berger around the ring with lefts and rights on the body, face and jaw, Berger was on his feet, but, distressed, when the gong sounded.

In the 10th round one of Moha's rights on the jaw made Berger wobble for an instant, but he fell into a clinch before Moha could whip over another one to the same spot. Both boxers were in good shape, and boxing at catchweights gave Berger some advantage in that respect.

After the bout it was discovered that one of the bones in Berger's right hand was broken. The accident happened in the fifth round, when the hand landed on Moha's head. That may have been the reason why Berger did not make the showing expected of him.

Only a small crowd of fans saw the contest, which was the kind that would interest almost any lover of the sport. The semifinal bout was an interesting contest. A. J. Duffy of Jamaica Plain substituted for Paddy Callahan and met Joe White of South Boston. Duffy's reach and height proved of good advantage for him. Both boys boxed a clever bout and both did some hard punching. Duffy was given the decision at the end of the eight rounds.

In the curtain-raiser Teddy Murphy met Frank Dubois, and after Murphy had been cautioned several times for foul work, he was disqualified in the second round and Dubois given the decision. In the second preliminary Harry Connor and Cy Goodman boxed six fast and hard rounds. The bout was called a draw.

No program was announced for next Tuesday night.

RACE TO LAWRENCE
LOWELL MEN TRYING TO ARRANGE ONE

William Salmon, one of Lowell's old time and favorite runners, and James Carr, a speed merchant of the present day, are trying to promote a race from the city hall in this city to the city hall in Lawrence. It has been arranged to have the race pulled off within a month and a number of entries have already been received.

A purse of good size will be put up as a prize if enough entries can be secured, and the race should be a good success, as there are quite a number of ambitious runners in this city.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

Remember tomorrow at 10 a. m. the box office of the new Keith theatre, in Bridge street, will open for the first time and tickets will then be on sale for all performances of next week. At noon the telephone will be available to those who desire to order by telephone. "No. 23." The theatre will formally open on Monday afternoon for the first matinee and will present one of the strongest vaudeville bills to be found anywhere. Direct from the Boston house where they are now delighting great audiences come the "Paris by Night" company of 15 comedians and sensational dancers in a startlingly novel act depicting scenes from the gay and wicked capital after dark. The scene is laid in front of the entrance to the celebrated Moulin Rouge which is faithfully depicted, as the act is a scenic sensation as well as a terpsichorean wonder. J. K. Murray and Clara Murray, the well known opera stars, are playing a limited engagement in vaudeville on the Keith circuit exclusively and the Lowell will have an opportunity to hear them in popular operatic selections as they will also appear on next week's bill. All Lowell will be interested to see the Cycling Brunettes perform, for while a prophet may be without honor in his own country, a bicyclist is not, especially when he has gone to the front ranks in vaudeville. The Brunettes do a great act and a funny one at that. The Kres Twins, noted physical culturists and exponents of the graceful Grecian style of wrestling, will do an act on the "wrestling mat" that will be of pleasure and wonderment to both sexes. "On and On," the story once written by a Lowell woman, but a clever and up-to-date vaudeville act depicting in satire, life before and behind the footlights of the trials and tribulations of "the profession." This act is presented by Flannigan and Edwards, a noted pair of vaudevillians. Col. Sam Holdsworth, just as young as he used to be, though the oldest professional tenor in America, will entertain and his sweet voice has lost none of its charm despite the passing years. Col. Holdsworth, by his singing has made countless thousands happy and he will carry his laurels as a part of next week's bill. Gordon and Keys, also a pair of noted mirth-provokers, are coming with a brand new budget of fun that will drive away the dullest care.—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

That the theatregoing public of Lowell thoroughly appreciates clean and high-class entertainment is evidenced by the fact that at all of the performances at the Merrimack Square theatre, and more especially during the past few weeks, the "standing room only" sign has been on display. The feature number for this week, a delightful one-act play, entitled "A Forgotten Melody," and given by the "Our Stock Company," is sure to meet with the approval of all. The piece is Edward F. Payne's masterpiece, and is being with the best one-act play ever staged. In it Kendal Weston, as the old music master shows forth that ability which stamps him as a finished actor. Those who have seen Mr. Weston in his series of sketches, allow that he is at his best in this. Numerous curtain calls have been in order at the close of each presentation. He is capably assisted by Miss Florence Phelps and Mr. James Byrne, Jr. The stage settings are excellently done, and add to the general enjoyment which the piece provides.

The others who contribute to the general excellence of the bill include Edward Graybe, known as "The Tall Tale Teller," whose witty sayings, funny stories and laughable songs, are almost sure of having the desired effect on all patrons. McAvoy and Brooks, comedians, are clever and give 15 minutes of good entertainment. Miss Eva Weston, the week's soloist, sings well. The photo-plays are the best and cleanest shown.

Patrons desiring to have their names placed on the subscription list should apply at the box office for a card. It costs no more and at the same time assures those who subscribe their favorite seat at the night performances. Something always going on from 1:30 to 10:30 o'clock daily. Telephone 2952.—Adv.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Birds of Paradise in flaming colors will be seen as one of the feature spectacles in the big pyrotechnical exhibition which is to be given at Lakeview park as the closing free entertainment for the season next Thursday evening, Sept. 7.

The exhibition is to be given by the American Fireworks Co. which is famous the country over for the originality of its Italian fireworks. The ingenuity of the Italian firework makers is unending and in spite of the centuries of pyrotechnical production they always have something new and unique to offer.

The Fountains of Vesuvius, the Whirling Whistle, the Flying Eagles, and other set-pieces which will be seen are marvels of novelty and beauty. But it is in the high air features that the Italian artist especially excels.

Aside from innumerable bombs, shells, girandoles and other bursting beauties there will be the Pupatella shell which bursts without light in a succession of 14 detonations forming a perfect many-sided polygon. The Tracocha shell which is a veritable heavenly bombardment, the Ascension Girandola which sends 800 feet into the air a huge ball of liquid fire throwing out spurs of ever-changing color, the dazzling searchlight shell, the Tracocha shell initiating with 500 rapid fire reports the engagement of troops of infantry, the flying bats and many others.

The display as a whole will be especially unique from the fact that it will not contain one Roman candle, one rocket, flower pot, or in fact any of the routine features of a typical exhibition of fireworks.

MARIE HORTON

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Opening week at the Hathaway theatre promises to be the banner opening week of stock theatres in Lowell. Generally the first few weeks are light, as regards to audiences, the theatrical ones awaiting the verdict of the early comers. But it would appear that the Donald Meek stock company, largely through Mr. Meek's personal reputation as a clever high-class comedian and versatile actor has won the public from the start. Thus far the audience have been large and most enthusiastic while the advance sale of seats indicates a rush business at the close of the week. Mr. Meek made a happy selection in choosing "Caught in the Rain" for his opening attraction. It is a good warm weather play, being bright and bracing as a rare day in June. He who witnesses it must laugh and laugh continuously for it is a continuity of funny sayings and situations set forth by an eminently clever company of players who appreciate its good points and bring them out most successfully. "Caught in the Rain" is being presented from the original manuscript of William Collier without curtailment and with all due regard to scenic effects and accessories. The rain storm of real water at the close of the first act excites the wonderment and appreciative applause of each audience. In the role created by William Collier, Mr. Meek appears to excellent advantage and it is doubtful if Collier ever did the part any better than the merry Meek. Next week the company will present Robson and Crane's great comedy success "The Henrietta," a comedy that has no superior on the American stage. In "The Henrietta" Mr. Meek will play "Horrie the Lamb," the role played by the late Stuart Robson and one of the most entertaining characters to be found in the great world of comedy. While with the Castle Square company Mr. Meek presented the part and received the highest praise from the Boston critics. Seats for next week's performances are on sale and may be ordered in advance by telephone 311. The subscription list will remain open a short time longer.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

FOR A MILLIONAIRE'S COACHING DINNER

The latest cry in table decoration was innovated at a dinner recently given by Alfred Vanderbilt in London. As may be seen, the centre of the table represented a coach meet. The turf, trees and road were the real article. The figures and coaches were of sterling silver. Mr. Vanderbilt, millionaire and whip, took part. It need scarcely be said, in the coaching Marathon held recently, driving his coach Ventura. He was unfortunate in not being placed. He had to make two stops for adjustments and only arrived just on the maximum time, twenty-five minutes after Judge Moore, the victor.

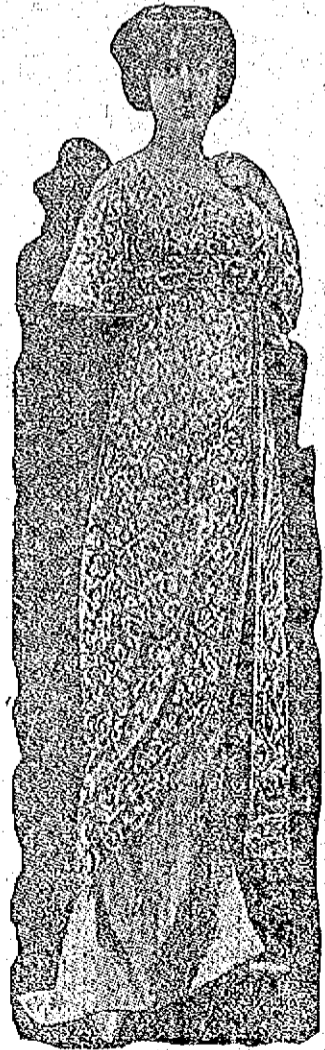

RHYTHMIC MARCHES GOOD FOR THE BLIND

Rhythmical dances and marches for the blind are the latest treatment for those so afflicted. The picture shows a Greek march in costume at the Overlook, an institution for the blind near Philadelphia. All sorts of out-of-door dances and games are taught to these young people in order that they may cultivate their "inner sight" and learn to walk and run without groping.

CHIFFON WRAPS ARE IDEALLY GRACEFUL

This beautiful summer wrap is made of coronation red chiffon, the deep hems making a band of deeper red trimming around the edges of the wrap. The chiffon is caught up at the bottom with rosettes, the lower edge being weighted to insure graceful lines.

LACE DRESS

Who will ever tire of the Irish lace dress? It will certainly never be out of style. The picture here shown is quite the latest cry in lace dresses. It is made short waisted and with the lace robe hobbled slightly around the ankles. The whole effect is one of stenderness.

THE MODERN GIRL

Is Roundly Scored by Mrs. Wiggin

Kate Douglas Wiggin recently said of the American girl: "The girls of today are most interesting, but appear extraordinary to a middle aged woman, who believes they must learn to live over again and hopes they will then live better, but doubts it. I do not think the spirit of modern women is one denoting progress, but is that of restlessness and discontent.

Mme. Sorgue, the most dangerous woman in Europe, is an anarchist of rare charm.

"Once you overcome an aversion to the woman because of what has been written about her," said a man recently, "and ask her opinion on any subject that agitates the mind of man or woman—art, love, marriage, religion or poetry—you will be astonished at her charm of manner, convincing eloquence and wide knowledge. She is wondrously human and, poignantly sympathetic. Her dark eyes flash indignantly at all stories of suffering and wrong, but when in repose they are beautiful in their tranquility; in a moment they twinkle with same humor and melt with sadness."

Miss Mabel Levy recently rowed completely around Manhattan island in one day. This is a distance of thirty-four miles and is considered a remarkable feat.

Her father rowed to Albany in a single shell, his best time being thirty hours and thirty-two minutes.

Mrs. Taft's latest present consists of several sacred tea plants from the garden of the Buddhist priests in Ceylon. They will be cared for in the tea farms of the Carolinas which are under government supervision. Mrs. Taft's chef is always kept supplied by the diplomats at Washington with delicate brands of tea which are absolutely unknown in this country.

Mrs. John Sidney McClelland was the originator of the Hawkeye club. She resides at the Auditorium hotel and receives all Hawkeye visitors. She has a remarkable knowledge of the state and its people.

Two policemen have recently been appointed in Christiania, Norway. They have entered the police school. During their two months' course they will receive instruction in police laws and duties.

In active service they will have charge of the social purity department of the force.

SWEET SANDWICHES

Many people greatly appreciate sweet sandwiches, and here are some recipes for excellent fillings of this kind:

CREAM AND JAM

A gill of cream whisked until stiff and then mixed with a large tablespoonful of raspberry jam and a little lemon juice.

FRESH FRUIT AND CREAM

Half a pint of sieved raspberry or strawberry puree (made by rubbing fresh fruit through a hair sieve) mixed with a quarter of a pint of whipped cream, a quarter of an ounce of gelatin (which has first been melted in three tablespoonfuls of hot water), sugar to taste and a squeeze of lemon juice. This mixture should be stirred until it is beginning to set and then at once spread thickly on slices of plain sponge or Madeira cake.

FRUIT AND SUGAR

Slices of any kind of fruit arranged between thin slices of brown bread and butter. The fruit should be dusted with sugar before a second slice of bread and butter is laid over the top.

STANTON'S POEM

Saved the Life of a Condemned Man

SALEM, Oregon, Sept. 6.—Frank L. Stanton's poem, "They Hung Bill Jones," saved the life of Jesse P. Webb yesterday, so Governor Oswald West said.

Webb, who was convicted of the murder of William A. Johnson, a ranchman, instead of being hanged at noon, was the guest of honor at a convict dinner in the penitentiary. Webb's sentence was commuted by Gov. West five minutes before the time appointed for the hanging. Governor West said he was influenced to grant the commutation by reading the poem.

NO CHANGE YET

It is now the first of September, and there has been no change in the retail price of coal. A month ago the retail dealers in Boston advanced the price 25 cents per ton, but we determined in the Spring to make one price for the whole summer. Coal is costing 50 cents per ton more at wholesale now than it did in April, and we advise those who have not already placed their order to do so very soon.

The Home Coal Company has taken particular pains this summer in laying in a stock of coal which is good old fashioned coal. If you have never burned Home's Coal give it a try, even if it's only a quarter of a ton.
